

Photons from the sun's rays beam down to earth.

Free electrons form in the solar cell.

A semi-conductive material, in this case, a silicon solar cell.

Power output to various locations.

